

GATHER AT WINONA TO MAKE UP PLANS

PRSBYTERIANS TO MEET AT THE INDIANA TOWN.

Gen. Harrison Declines to Stand for the Moderator of the Assembly and No Layman Will Be Considered—Meeting Likely to Be Devoid of Sensation, They Say.

Winona Assembly, Eagle Lake, Ind., May 19.—Gen. Harrison is out of the race for moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church. He has served notice on those friends who were endeavoring to make him a candidate that he would not attend the meeting as a commissioner unless he could have assurance that his name was not to be mentioned in connection with the moderatorship. That assurance has been given him.

The commissioners on the ground have started a boom for the Rev. J. Wilber Chapman, of Philadelphia, the pastor of John Wanamaker's church, and he is a likely candidate. The western commissioners would like to elect one of their own representatives to the position, and Illinois or Indiana may present a candidate. It is now definitely settled that the advisability of electing an elder will not be considered. There is too much opposition to the proposition.

The retiring moderator, the Rev. J. L. Withrow, of Chicago, has arrived. The Rev. Thomas Marshall, of Chicago, field secretary of the board of foreign missions, is here, and participated in the annual conference for the consideration of the missionary work. The talk of this conference indicates that the last year has been one of vigorous activity in the mission field. It cost $23,220 to pay the railroad fare of the commissioners to the general assembly at Saratoga last year. The total cost of the general assembly was $40,000.

Those who advocate making this the permanent home of the assembly point out that much of this money that is spent in mileage may be saved by meeting at a place like this, centrally located and near the center of population of the United States.

The general assembly is a systematic body. The statistical reports from the presbyteries and the reports of the standing committees and the various boards have all been in the hands of the stated clerk, the Rev. William Henry Roberts of Philadelphia, for several weeks. The general assembly meets invariably on the third Thursday of May at 11 o'clock a. m., whether 20 or 600 commissioners have arrived. The credentials of commissioners are presented at a previous hour of the same day. The annual sermon by the retiring moderator will be preached immediately after the opening of the session.

The dates assigned to popular meetings are as follows: Friday, second day, board of publication and Sunday school work; Sunday, woman's executive committee of home missions and young people's work in home and foreign missions; Monday, missions among the freedmen; Tuesday, home mission work; Wednesday, foreign mission work; Friday, temperance; second Sunday, aid of colleges and academies.

The report of the committee on election voters at church meetings will bring up the old question as to whether persons other than communicants of the church ought to be allowed to vote in these meetings, and also the question as to whether a man not a member of the church ought to be elected to the office of trustee of a church. The report of the committee will not be made public until it is presented, but it is the understanding that the committee will take the liberal view.

Five years ago the synod of Indiana established an innovation in the home mission work which has proved to be a success. It had always been the custom for the synods to pay their money for home mission work into a general treasury in New York, from which each synod afterward drew the amount allotted for its own missionary work. The synod of Indiana required more money than it paid into the general treasury, so it was decided to try the plan of taking care of its mission work independent of the national treasury. Every year since the plan was adopted more money than was needed has been raised. Two years ago Illinois adopted the plan, and last year the synod of Ohio adopted it. There will be strong sentiment in favor of the adoption of the plan by the general assembly.

While there is much important business before the general assembly there are no indications that anything of a sensational nature will come up.

BAPTISTS ELECT OFFICERS.

Continue in Office Tried Workers—Missionaries' Salaries Restored.—Pittsburg, Pa., May 19.—At the city's national convention in the Women's Baptist Home Mission society's national convention in the Fourth Avenue Baptist church Tuesday the committee on nominations reported the following general officers: President, Mrs. J. N. Crouse, Chicago; corresponding secretary, Miss M. G. Burdette, Chicago; recording secretary, Mrs. W. E. Wamsley, Brooklyn; treasurer, Mrs. A. H. Barber, Chicago.

With a long list of vice-presidents, they were re-elected.

The dropping of mission bands and the furthering of the work done by junior societies was advocated. A resolution that the 10 per cent reduction in missionaries' salaries, made in 1895, be restored was adopted.

Omaha, Neb., May 19.—A week ago the Young Women's Christian association of Omaha, which has 500 members, amended the constitution so as to include all but members of evangelical churches, thus shutting out Catholics and liberals. The section adopted allows all women over 15 years of age, of good moral character to become active members if they pay an annual fee of $1.

Three of the injured men were conveyed to their homes in a serious condition, and physicians who attended them expressed fears for their recovery. The financial loss is light.

Upholds the "Flambeau Law."

Indianapolis, Ind., May 19.—Indiana's "flambeau law" has been declared constitutional by the Supreme court. This act, passed by the legislature of 1891, forbids the use of natural gas for illuminating purposes in what are known as flambeau night. The act, however, excepts "jumbo burners," in which the flame is inclosed in a glass globe.

A STRONG SPEECH BY SENATOR MASON

THE ILLINOIS MAN'S ADDRESS ON CUBA'S WOES.

Vigorous Action Favored by the Illinois Statesman—Mr Hoar Takes the Opposite View of the Case—Executive Session Closes the Day at the Capital.

Washington, May 19.—Cuba again occupied the foreground in the senate Tuesday. It brought two notable speeches, the one by Mr. Mason (rep., Ill.), in favor of the Morgan resolution, and the other by Mr. Hoar (rep., Mass.), in opposition to it.

Mr. Mason began with sarcastic reference to the "polite delays" of the senate, which had taken the place of the "old game of filibuster." The senator declared it was time to act; to carry out the platform of the Republican party, and to speak here and now in behalf of Cuba. Mr. Mason referred to "that splendid gentleman" in the presidential chair and to the president's Cuban message Monday in proof of the serious conditions prevailing in Cuba. "If 800 American citizens are being driven like swine," exclaimed Mr. Mason, "compelling us to send from our shores to protect them, in the name of God, if it is not war, what is it?"

Mr. Mason and Mr. Wellington had a warm colloquy as to what the latter had said of the "paper government" of the Cubans, and as to the difference between the strength of the Cubans and that of Washington at Valley Forge. The Illinois senator declared that he cared nothing as to the forms of the Cuban government, or the location of its capital, for "if it had nothing but the heavens for a shelter, then I am for that just the same."

Mr. Wellington protested against some of Mr. Mason's statements. Mr. Mason dismissed the protest lightly, and in a jocular manner.

He continued: "When you get at the deep undertone of the conscience of the Christian people of this country they say let us have freedom in Cuba. Let the Spanish go back to his own land, and let us have no slaves upon our continent. I am for the liberty, the independence of Cuba on a better and broader ground. I propose better environment, not for trade or commerce, not for the extension of territory—and that is the difference between the ordinary British lawmaker and ourselves."

"Mr. President," exclaimed Mr. Mason, "if we did not have a ship in the world and every gun was melted into a plowshare; if every bayonet was buried; if every ship we ever had was sunk in the middle of the sea, there is no nation in the world, much less Spain, that would ever dare strike our colors on American soil."

Mr. Hoar replied to Mr. Mason. He referred to the speech which had preceded as "exuberant oratory," and said sarcastically that notwithstanding it the power of international law would prevail. The only effect of recognition would be to give Spain the right to search our ships at sea and to take away from American citizens in Cuba all hope of recompense for injury done them.

The senate, he said, should ask the President to use his good offices with Spain to secure peace and the independence of Cuba, and that was what the Republican platform proposed. He would have the facts found as a court found them before entering judgment, and would then say to Spain, "We have found such and such facts, on which we propose to act, and if you don't stop that war, we'll stop it," and he would not stand in the senate and brag and sputter.

Mr. Hoar closed with the somewhat contemptuous remark that he believed little could be accomplished for Cuba "by speeches for buncombe or for Chicago, to be followed by no practical or sensible action."

Mr. Gallinger (Rep., N. H.) expressed surprise that senators should be accused of speaking for the applause of the galleries and of furnishing buncombe for constituents. These senators had sought for months to secure consideration of a Cuban resolution, but had been cut off by filibustering methods.

Mr. Hale earnestly protested against this reference to filibustering. He stated that there would be no unnecessary delay on the resolution. After fair discussion it would be voted on. He was as anxious as any one, he said, to see the resolution out of the way.

ADVANCE STOPPED BY SULTAN'S MEN

CHANGE IN POLICY AT CON- STANTINOPLE.

Report That the Bulgarian Army Is Being Mobilized Causes the Sultan to Revise His Plans—Vienna Paper Talks of the Situation—Other War News.

London, May 19, 1 a. m.—The war is virtually ended. The crown prince headed the retreat, and his headquarters are now established close to Derenfourka pass, a very narrow gorge through the Othrys range, about twelve miles from Lamia.

London is still without accounts of the battle of Domokos from the Turkish side, but it is evident that the Greek defeat was complete and decisive. An Italian officer with the Greeks puts their killed and wounded at 2,000, but probably this is much exaggerated, as the Greek positions were well protected and the retreat began as soon as they became untenable.

The greatest depression exists at Athens. There is a complete collapse of the high hopes raised by the optimistic dispatches of Constantine, but as yet there are no disorders.

After hoisting a flag of truce at Arta a deputation of Turkish officers appeared over the River Arta (Arachthos), to negotiate with Col. Manos for an armistice. A communication from the Turkish to the Greek commander ran as follows:

"On condition that no Greek soldier belonging to any arm of the service remains on territory of the Ottoman empire, we have orders that an armistice shall be concluded on sea and land, with a view to arriving at an understanding."

"YUSSUF, Chief of Staff." The Greek commander telegraphed Athens for instructions and the government replied:

"We authorize you to suspend hostilities in order to discuss the conditions of an armistice."

The government in notifying the envoys of the powers of this proposal said that as Greece had entrusted her interests to the powers it was for them to negotiate the conditions of an understanding.

Constantinople, May 19.—There was a sudden and unexpected change in the political situation shortly before noon to-day. Russia quietly showed her hand and thereby forced Germany and Turkey out of the game, to all intents and purposes.

Last night and early this morning Turkey, supported by Germany, was practically defying Russia, France, Austria, Great Britain and Italy, insisting upon the annexation of Thessaly in addition to a huge war indemnity, and, seemingly, was determined to march upon Athens.

The ministers received official advices from Sofia to-day announcing that orders had been issued for the partial mobilization of the Bulgarian army, possibly at the instigation of Russia.

There was a hurried consultation of the ministers. The war party was for further defiance, but in the end pacific counsels seemed to have prevailed, for, at 11:35 a. m., orders were telegraphed to Edhem Pasha, the Turkish commander-in-chief in Thessaly, to cease hostilities.

The peace negotiations will now be undertaken in real earnest and the Greeks will most likely be spared any further humiliation.

TURKEY IS WARNED.

Vienna Paper Says Powers Will Lay Down Conditions.

Vienna, May 19.—The semi-official Fremdenblatt makes a statement which is regarded as outlining the views of Austria and Russia on the eastern situation, as developed by the extravagant demands of Turkey, supported, apparently, by Germany. It says:

"By selecting Pharsalos as the place to discuss the peace negotiations the Turkish government appears to be desirous of eluding the intervention of the powers. In fact, the Turkish government is under a misapprehension as to the situation. The integrity of Turkey, upon which Europe has lain stress, and which Austria and Russia in the plainest terms have declared to be the basis of their policy, is far from meaning that Turkey can act in the Balkan peninsula as she pleases and without regard for the powers."

The Turkish conditions of peace are immeasurably exaggerated. Europe can not assent to the recession of Thessaly, nor can it be brought about by a continuance of the war, which the victories of Turkey have rendered purposeless. Further, the excessive amount of indemnity can not but arouse the opposition of the powers, as it is far beyond the capacity of Greece to pay. Again, by the abolition of the capitulations a precedent would be created which the powers could not accept. Turkey would do better to seek advantage from her victories in an enlarged capacity of action in internal reorganization and in ending the disintegrating misgovernment."

Protest From M. Ralli.

Athens, May 19.—The Asy says that M. Ralli, the premier, has informed the ministers of the foreign powers that unless an armistice is quickly concluded the government will issue an appeal to Hellenism, calling upon all able-bodied men to take up arms in defense of the fatherland in danger, and that a royal message will summon beneath the standard the entire land-sturm and the peasants, who will also be armed. The feeling in official circles is very pessimistic.

Favor the Paterson Bill.

Washington, May 19.—The question of the propriety of the enactment of a law permitting pooling by railroads was under consideration Tuesday by the sub-committee of the senate committee on interstate commerce appointed for this purpose. The members of the interstate commerce commission are favorably inclined toward the Paterson bill of the last session as originally introduced. It seems altogether probable that the recommendations of the sub-committee will embody the suggestions of the commissioners.

No Arrest in Clark Case.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 19.—The fear of a scandal may enable the murderer of Nelson B. Clark, of Grand Rapids, Mich., to go free. The Masonic friends of the dead man have communicated with the family in Grand Rapids, and are waiting for instructions. The police refuse to give any information that would lead to the belief that they have obtained any trace of Clark during the time between 8 and 11 o'clock on Friday evening. On the other hand, the detectives working for the Masons hint that they know all about Clark's whereabouts during that time and who was with him.

The house bill (Merriam's) repealing the law allowing custodians of public funds to loan the same was advanced to third reading by the senate.

BROTHERHOODS MAY UNITE.

Great Project of Railway Men Broached at Toronto Convention.

Toronto, Ont., May 19.—The big convention of trainmen of the United States, Canada and Mexico is excited over a proposition to form a federation of all men directly interested in the running of trains, taking in besides the 24,000 trainmen represented at this convention the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, the Order of Railway Conductors and the Order of Railway Telegraphers. With such a federation of bodies, all working together and representing probably 100,000 to 150,000 men, demands made by any branch of the order would, it is felt, be almost irresistible. It is altogether likely that some action will be taken at this convention looking to some fusion of these bodies.

Hard Blow at Bicyclists.

St. Louis, Mo., May 19.—Judge Bond of the Court of Appeals, Judges Bland and Biggs concurring, dealt a heavy blow to the suburban bicycle riders Tuesday. RIVENBURG GUILTY ON MANY COUNTS

"STATE LINE JOINT" KEEPER IS CORNERED.

Proprietor of the Illinois House, Near Beloit, May Have to Serve Four Hundred Days For Selling Liquor
—Rockford Jury Finds Him Guilty
County News.

Beloit, May 19.—Hiram Rivenburg, the proprietor of the Illinois house on the state line, was jolted very hard at Rockford when his case came to trial. A jury in the circuit court found Hiram guilty of illegal liquor selling on every count in his indictment—21 in all. The witnesses who testified to the selling of liquor in Hiram's joint on the state line were Officers Scheibel and Whipple, of Beloit, George Searies and Officer Tulley. Rivenburg went on the stand and Matt Whalen also testified for him. As Whalen left the stand he was arrested on a capias and lodged in jail to answer to his own indictment for the same offense and later fined $75 and costs.

The attorneys were brief in their addresses. The jury was out just an hour and found the defendant guilty on every count. Rivenburg was remanded for sentence. The length of his term will be over 400 days.

Rivenburg, after serving 31 days in jail for illegal selling of liquor, came immediately to the Illinois house and again sold wet goods without a license. He was arrested six weeks ago, had a hearing at Rockford and was released on bail furnished by Roda Whalen who mortgaged his property to procure the necessary cash.

Officer Cash Whipple went to Rockford as a witness, making the trip on a wheel with S. L. Evans.

The Tiffany creamery company paid a higher price for milk for the last half of April than most of the creameries in this section, being 5 cents higher than Shoppers, 8 cents higher than LaPrairie and 10 cents higher than Emerald Grove. Tobacco beds are in good condition and a large acreage will be planted in this section. THE GAS COMPANY WILL BID

Make a Proposition To Save a Large Amount to Tax Payers.

Office of New Gas Light Co., Janesville, Wis., May 18, '97.—To the Tax Payers of the City of Janesville:—In the proceedings of the common council as published in The Gazette of last evening, I noticed a statement of the yearly rates for electric lamps paid by Wisconsin cities, and see from it that the rate we are paying for our electric lamps, when actual hours of burning are concerned, is about as low as any.

I have frequently heard the question discussed as to how the city's expenses could be reduced; the hard times of the last two years have now made this question most pertinent.

I wish to show in the following statement a way by which the city can yearly save between four and five thousand dollars.

At present the lighting equipment consists of 156 arc electric lamps at $72.00 per lamp per year, and of 42 Welsbach gas lamps at $26.00 per lamp per year, making $11,232.00 per year for arc electric and $1,092 per year for Welsbach gas, a total of $12,324.00 per year.

The total number of lights in the city is now 198; suppose we increase this figure by 10%, making 300 lamps in all, these at $26.00 each would cost yearly $7800.00. In other words the lighting of this city with 300 Welsbach gas lamps, instead of arc electric lamps as at present, would yearly lessen the city's expenses $5,524.00. These Welsbach lamps can be erected wherever they are wanted without any reference to our system of mains.

The Gas company is ready when the city calls for bids, to make a proposition on the above lines.

GAVE OUT MUCH BEET SEED

The Agricultural Department at Washington Dispose of $10,000 Pounds.

A dispatch from Washington says: The sugar beet seed which the agricultural department has been distributing is practically exhausted, about 10,000 pounds having been sent out to farmers in about four-fifths of the states. The seed has been distributed in packages of from one ounce to half a pound, purely for experimental purposes. The beets grown from the seed will be analyzed and the ascertained determined to ascertain where beets can be profitably grown for the production of sugar.

EVIDENCE AGAINST STAIN

Local Authorities Find a Tag On a Book Taken From Him.

Frank Stain, who was captured in this city by Sheriff Acheson while trying to dispose of a lot of witch charms at a local second hand store, is now more liable to be convicted as the result of a discovery made at the jail. When Stain was searched, a small tag with the Oak Grove merchants' cost and selling mark on it, was discovered in the corner of a small book taken from his pocket. The Fond du Lac authorities will be notified of the find.

WILL NOT GRADE THE STREET.

Expense Will Be Larger Than the Projectors Anticipated.

It has been decided not to grade Bluff street from Milwaukee to North First street, as the cost is now estimated at from $600 to $700. People who signed the petition favoring the grading of the street did so with the understanding that the cost should not exceed $200. As the engineers bill alone would overreach these figures, it was deemed best to abandon the project.

Company A Scores a Success With Its Military Ball and Reception—Staff and Regimental Officers Entertained at Dinner—Speeches by Col. Anderson Gen. Doe, and Gen. Boardman.

National colors gave the key to the Army decorations last night and army blue predominated on the floor. Company A was celebrating the growth in strength and efficiency that has been so marked in the last twelve months. Staff and regimental officers from all parts of the state were in attendance and had good reason to congratulate Captain Hanson and the Janesville militiamen on the work that has been accomplished.

Governor Seefeld, who expected to attend, was forced to remain in Madison preparing for his trip to Eau Claire (G. A. R. encampment today. His private secretary, Col. W. J. Anderson, and Adjutant General C. R. Boardman spoke for him, and expressed his regret at not being present.

The fact that the Madison visitors were forced to leave at 9:30 in the evening made necessary several changes in programme. The guests and members of the reception committee gathered at 6:30 in the supper room on the second floor of the Army block and dinner was served by Caterer Shurtlett. Those who sat about the table were:

Gen. F. W. Byers, Col. S. J. Murphy, Col. J. B. Doe, Col. W. H. Patton, Gen. C. R. Boardman, Col. W. J. Anderson, Gen. J. B. Whitting, Col. W. C. Ginty, Col. M. R. Dayton, Capt. Pliny Norcross, Col. J. C. W. Brooks, Capt. C. L. Hanson, Capt. H. W. Thompson, Capt. H. H. Kobelin, Capt. T. J. Rogers, Lieut. F. C. Bloedel, Lieut. Col. C. R. Young, Lieut. Henry Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Child, O. H. Brand, Messajmes—F. H. Koebelin, C. L. Hanson, C. R. Young, H. W. Thompson, Messrs—Will A. Jackson, J. C. Wilmarth, M. G. Jeffris, R. M. Bostwick, Al. Schaller, George E. Foster, Misses—Mae Stevens, Elizabeth Norcross, Racine Bostwick, Elizabeth Schlicher, Elizabeth Abbott, Josephine Carle.

Speeches Brief and to the Point.

General Byers filled the place of toastmaster and when the last course had been served he reminded those about him that their duty to society required each to "make a speech, sing a song or tell a lie." Amid the laughter that followed this sally he introduced Col. W. J. Anderson as a substitute for Governor Seefeld. Colonel Anderson gracefully expressed his expressed his appreciation of the hospitality manifested by Janesville and then ventured, as a civilian, to tell of his growing regard and respect for the National Guard. Increased familiarity with its work had led him to feel the greatest pride in Wisconsin's soldiery, and had cleared his mind for all time of the idea that there was any nonsense about it. He attached great importance to the militia of the state. No educational institution was teaching such lessons as the Guard, especially the lesson of obedience. He was thankful, although he bore but an ornamental title, that he belonged to it.

Gen. J. B. Doe was introduced next and gave some reminiscences of early days in the Janesville Guards. Turning from that to broader phases of the subject he pointed out that the nation was really dependant for a military force upon the 115,000 men composing the National Guard of various states. Even this small force was maintained at the expense of the states and not of the national government. The militia might be taken to represent both the police and the fire department of the state, and the speaker was prompted to ask how long a police department could be maintained if the members had to pay a third of their own expenses.

Man of Peace Talks of War.

Captain Pliny Norcross was called upon but declined, in order that there might be more time for others. He was followed by Captain H. W. Thompson, the regimental chaplain, who declared that he was a man of peace, but said he believed the surest way to have peace was to be prepared for war. He wanted the National Guard encouraged and built up. He wanted it to have the place in public ceremonies and patriotic demonstrations that had been conceded since the war to that splendid organization, the Grand Army of the Republic.

M. G. Jeffris spoke, as a civilian, of the welcome Janesville was glad to extend to her soldier guests. He wanted to see the National Guard thrive, and believed the Janesville company would gain through the visit. For a number of years the citizens had not taken the interest they should in the company, and he hoped that a turning point had been reached.

Adjutant General C. R. Boardman responded, under protest, to the call to General Byers, but as he warmed to his theme he paid a graceful tribute to the working efficiency of the National Guard of the state. He recalled a remark made to General Bragg as the second regiment was leaving for camp.

"Why general," said the man, "they are a lot of kids."

"I don't know what you call them," said the general, "but they look just the way we did in 1861."

General Boardman contrasted the present effective militia system with the Wisconsin system prior to 1860—every township a company, every county a regiment, and the state divided into brigades. Even with that clumsy organization and with drills only once a year the state was able to furnish 77,000 troops during the civil war—troops that were declared to be the equal of any troops in the world.

General Boardman closed with the hope that Company A would become not only the best company in the regiment, but the best company in the state.

Dancing Followed the Speeches.

The speeches being at an end General Byers announced that "parade is dismissed" and the guests found their way to the hall above. Dancing began at 9:30, but before this Company A gave a scene from camp life—the dress parade and lowering of colors. The grand march was formed at 10:30 and was led by Colonel S. J. Murphy and Miss Elizabeth Abbott, and General J. B. Doe and Mrs. J. F. Sweeney.

Dancing did not end until 1 o'clock. The hall presented a beautiful spectacle. It was decorated with bunting, palms and flowers and the hallways and supper room were bright with the national colors.

A BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION.

Dinner and Poem in Honor of G. H. Davis' Anniversary.

Monday was the seventy-seventh birthday of G. H. Davis, of this city and with his children and grand-children around him, the day was spent most happily. The house was decorated with roses and carnations and many useful gifts were received in a graceful manner by Mr. Davis. The family sat down to one of those good old dinners for which Mrs. G. H. Davis is noted for giving. The table was adorned with passion flowers lying in large crystal bowls of water. A poem written by Mrs. Abbie A. Ford was read by George W. Davis of Chicago. G. H. Davis is being treated by Dr. Brooks of Chicago, and his improvement in the past three weeks has been marvelous. Those who know him wish he may see many more birthdays and that every one will be as pleasant as that of yesterday.

"A Sweet Memory."
[Dedicated to Mr. G. H. Davis, on His Seventy-Seventh Birthday.]

As we recall the joyous years
Now past and gone—forever—
With all its smiles—with all its tears,
All the ties that have been severed,
One bright, sweet face and loving heart
Has beamed like sunshine—warm—
Our fathers in pain and anguish smart
Still smiled—through darkest storm.

His trials forgotten—no long drawn face—
No aroars or complaints we hear—
But smiles from morn till night in place,
With words of comfort and cheer.
Every year brings but added charm
To the dear face we love well;
How willingly we'd keep from him all harm,
Could love his sufferings quell.

If in the past we've failed in our parts,
"We children" who love him so,
'Twas not for lack of loving hearts
And this, we're sure he knows.
Every day, we can but feel
That our father's our dearest friend;
And as old age gracefully or he him steals,
We'll be faithful unto the end.

Traveling Is Extra-Hazardous

If the tourist is unprovided with some medicinal resource. Changes of temperature, food and water of an unaccustomed or unwholesome quality, and a route that lies in the tropics or other regions where malaria exists, are each and all fraught with danger to one who has been improvident enough to neglect a remedial safeguard. The concurrent testimony of many voyagers by land and establishes the fact that Hottel's Stomach Bitters enables those who use it to encounter hazards of the nature referred to with impunity; and that, as a medicine adapted to sudden and unexpected exigencies, it is peculiarly valuable. Disorders of the liver, the bowels and the stomach, fever and ague, rheumatism and nervous ailments, brought on by exposure, are among the maladies to which emigrants, travelers and new settlers are most subject. These and others yield to the action of the Bitters promptly and completely.

MURDERER PAUTZ'S CAREER.

He Was Born Near Manitowoc and Lived in Milwaukee.

William Pautz, who murdered Alexander Harris and attempted to murder Mrs. Harris, Miss Helen Vesbach and Nelson Machold, the hired man, and whose body was found in a mill pond in the town of New Berlin, was a son of Fred Pautz, a farmer living near Manitowoc, where he was born. He was about 32 years of age and about a year ago resided in Milwaukee for a short time, being employed in the Wisconsin Bridge and Iron Works at North Milwaukee. During the middle of last summer, however, he was laid off, whereupon he went to Waukegan and entered the service of Harris. There he made the acquaintance of Miss Vesbach. After that, he worked for several farmers in the vicinity and then came to Milwaukee. Failing to find employment here, he returned to his father's farm in Manitowoc county, where he spent the winter. On the fourth of May, the day before the murder, he told his father that he was coming to Milwaukee, where he expected to get employment. Here he staid over night and in the morning rode on his bicycle out to Waukegan, to see Miss Vesbach, it is generally believed. The Milwaukee police believe that he met disappointment in any matrimonial proposals he may have made to her and was by this made desperate and committed the crime in consequence.

MRS. ANNA B. SHAW SPEAKS.

Talented Women Lectured in This City Last Night.

Mrs. Anna B. Shaw, of Philadelphia lectured on "The New Man" at the Court street M. E. church last evening and a goodly audience heard her. Mrs. Shaw spoke both interestingly and effectively, and the audience enjoyed the lecture fully. Frequent and liberal applause was given her. She is a clever logician, and clinches her arguments well. It is impossible to accuse her of either rant or tirade; her speech has force and definiteness, yet always a touch of quiet humor that keeps even the crustiest audience on pleasant terms with the speaker. She possesses a rich contralto voice that rings full and sweet in the largest auditorium, and contributes much to the enjoyment of her hearers.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

The president's message was much too sensible and reasonable to please the blood-thirsty. It will satisfy the country, however, and will convince Spain that Weylerism must cease. As a matter of fact General Weyler is responsible for most of the anti-Spanish sentiment in this country. His command forcing all non-combatants to concentrate in garrison towns has been the finishing stroke. This order has added greatly to the horrors of the war. Theoretically the wants of the non-combatants are to be supplied by Spain, but in reality they are not supplied by Spain or from any other source. Spain not only shrinks this obligation, but she refuses to let these people go back to their homes to raise food, or to work for it outside of the garrisoned posts. As a consequence the deaths by starvation and disease have increased greatly since the concentration edict began to be enforced. Among the sufferers are numbers of American citizens, who are unable to leave the island, and who are thus compelled to passively face hardship and death.

President McKinley's protest is based technically on the demands of humanity, but cannot fail to have an important bearing on the general question of the insurrection. The insurrection of course, is the direct cause of all of the disturbance and hardship on the island, and every investigation of conditions in that quarter must encounter this decisive fact at the outset. On whatever grounds, therefore, a protest by the United States against Spain's barbarity in Cuba is based, the strength of the insurrection is increased and the status of the insurgents improved.

Wisconsin tobacco growers see no reason why the tariff on cigar leaf should be reduced. A duty of $1.50 a pound on wrapper stock will give them a very fair measure of protection, however, and this is the duty that seems likely to stand. Inasmuch as most of the clear Havana cigars are now made from Connecticut and Wisconsin leaf, the smoker seems to think he needs as much protection as anybody.

If the republican papers do not stop abusing General Doe they will regret it. For such abuse will almost surely make him the democratic candidate for governor. As a campaigner, General Doe is a get up and duster.—Milwaukee Telegraph.

The insinuation that deftness in moving furniture is needed to insure popularity among democrats is mean enough to justify all the Telegraph's democratic readers in stopping their papers. But the Telegraph really doesn't mean it.

Secretary Wilson is very hopeful of good results from his experiment of shipping American butter to Europe; also of his distribution of sugar beet seeds to twenty thousand farmers. He is a firm believer in practical, rather than theoretical, ways of helping our farmers.

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH.

A Pleasant, Simple, But Safe and Effectual Cure for It.

Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable. The usual symptoms are a full or bloating sensation after eating, accompanied sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the heart and lungs and difficult breathing; headaches, fickle appetite, nervousness and a general played out, languid feeling.

There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed condition.

The cure for this common and obstinate trouble is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily, thoroughly digested before it has time to ferment and irritate the delicate mucous surfaces of the stomach. To secure a prompt and healthy digestion is the one necessary thing to do and when normal digestion is secured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.

According to Dr. Harlanston the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet, composed of Distasse, Aseptic Pepsin, a little Nux. Golden Seal and fruit acids. These tablets can now be found at all drug stores under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and not being a patent medicine can be used with perfect safety and assurance that healthy appetite and normal digestion will follow their regular use after meals.

Mr. N. J. Bocher, of 2710 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill., writes: "Catarrh is a local condition resulting from a neglected cold in the head, whereby the lining membrane of the nose becomes inflamed and the poisons discharge themselves passing backward into the throat reaches the stomach, thus producing catarrh of the stomach. Medical authorities prescribed for me for three years for catarrh of stomach without cure, but today I am the happiest of men after using only one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I cannot find appropriate words to express my good feeling. I have found flesh, appetite and sound rest from their use."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest preparation as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion, catarrh of stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn and bloating after meals.

Send for little book, mailed free, on stomach troubles, by addressing Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. The tablets can be found at all drug stores.

LACK OF INTEREST KILLS UNION PLAN

LOCAL CLERS NOT TAKEN WITH IDEA.

Organizer Waited About an Hour at Union Labor Hall Last Evening, but The Salesmen Did Not Show Up— Says They Feared Their Employers.

Local retail clerks are not anxious to form a branch of the Retail Clerks' association. Organizer J. J. Ballschmider of Milwaukee, who spent yesterday in the city, found this fact out last evening. He patiently waited for over an hour at Union Labor hall, but not one clerk put in an appearance. Organizer Ballschmider left for his home in Milwaukee this afternoon, anything but pleased with the way the clerks in this city had received him.

"The one great point with the clerks in this city," said Mr. Ballschmider, "is the fact that they all wanted to know if they were to get any money out of such a move. They also seemed to be afraid that they were going to offend their bosses."

Last evening's attempt to form a union was the third one made in this city. Organizer Ballschmider says the motto of the association is "Unity, Progress and Protection."

The Association Plan.

It is strictly a fraternal organization composed entirely of retail clerks in all branches of trade, other than the liquor trade. The national body is made up of local associations in all parts of the United States.

Locals may be formed by any number of clerks, not less than seven, regardless of sex, provided they are actively engaged in a retail store at the time of presenting application. Each local has entire control of its finances, only being required to pay a small per capita tax on its members in good standing to the national body.

The national body was organized at Detroit, Mich., in December, 1890 and holds an annual convention beginning the second Tuesday in July, at which all locals in good standing are entitled to representation.

DR. KEMPSTER TOLD ABOUT THE INJURY

MILWAUKEE PHYSICIAN TESTI- FIES IN SELLECK CASE.

Says the Plaintiff is Suffering With Chronic Meningitis as the Result of Her Fall—Plaintiff's Case Finished This Afternoon, and the Defense Takes Up the Fight.

Telling testimony against the city was given this morning in the damage suit of Mrs. Selleck vs. The City of Janesville.

Dr. Walter Kempster of Milwaukee, was on the witness stand during the greater portion of the morning. He stated that in his opinion the plaintiff was now suffering from a case of chronic meningitis, caused by the fall.

Dr. Kempster explained to the jury how such a fall could produce such a condition, the testimony being largely technical. At noon the testimony on the part of the plaintiff was finished.

Attorney William Ruger opened the case for the defense this afternoon, and the city's side of the matter is now being presented. The witnesses sworn for the city were George McWilliams, Andrew W. Reddy, John Zamzow, James Donahue, William E. Spicer, C. W. Wisch, Adam Wilson, J. L. Spellman, F. S. Winslow and W. H. Tallman. Most of these witnesses were men whose business caused them to use the walk each day, and they told of its condition.

W. H. Tallman was on the stand at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. He said that the sidewalk was made of oak planks, and was in good condition. There were no loose boards he said. A new walk was built because the tenants objected to the looks of it. If there had been any defects in the walk he said, he should have had them remedied.

CHICAGO MARKETS BY WIRE

Robert Lindblom's Letter On the Condition of Crops and Trade.

Chicago, May 19—[Special]—Reports at primary markets are 507,000 compared with 275,000 last week. The increase at Duluth is in some measure due to shipments from Minneapolis, but not entirely so. There is an absolute increase of at least one hundred thousand bushels and the trade does not like it. Cables have turned but timely rains in the northwest had a weak influence in spite of the large shipments from Chicago, Duluth and the seaboard. As usual, we only hear the good reports now. The country looks green and beautiful, and everybody declares that it has never looked better. We say the same thing every spring, and it makes everybody bearish. By and by the Russian fly will be heard from, and then the bad reports will come all in a heap. She has commenced in Michigan and they say in Kansas, but we do not believe that, because that particular kind of vermin has never been in Kansas. They have a large assortment of every kind of bugs in that God-forsaken country and they do not need the Russian fly to ruin crops there. Two chinch bugs and grasshopper and the hot winds will attend to the Kansas crop with the usual efficiency. In the mean time the trade may forget all about the scarcity of cash, and just sell July wheat as though there would be some supplies on hand in July. Oklahoma, Kentucky and Tennessee may have sold some to St. Louis, but not here, that is sure. Corn is a shade lower on the usual reports of glorious prospects by bank suits, and railroads. Oats are firm, however, and there is a very large shipping demand.

The failure to pass corrupt gas consideration bill had a good effect on everything except gas. It shows that our legislators cannot be bought like cattle. Wheat will be governed by merit of cash demand in the end.

MUST CLEAN UP THE ALLEYS

Health Officer Gibson Begins the Summer Campaign.

Health Officer James Gibson has started out on a vigorous campaign this spring against all property owners who are in any way violating the rules as laid down by the health department. Papers have been served on South Main street and Court street merchants, notifying them to clean up their back yards and alleys. In all cases one warning is given, and if this is not heeded, legal steps are taken.

WILL HAVE BEARING ON PRICE OF COAL

LOCAL DEALERS INTERESTED IN NEW YORK CASE.

The Investigation of the Alleged Combine Means much to the Merchants As Well as the Consumer—Expect a Sharp Decline If Ring is Broken Up.

Whether or not the citizens of Janesville will be obliged to pay high prices in the future for coal, will, to a large extent, be settled in New York city tomorrow when the investigating committee gets through with the alleged coal combine. Local dealers who have been obliged to pay high prices on account of this combine are anxiously awaiting the result of the investigation.

"The dealers are at the mercy of the combine," said a local coal merchant today. "We are ruled with an iron hand and can do nothing. If the combine is broken up I expect that prices will decline within a very short time."

Competition, under the present system, is impossible, and the dealers would be pleased to see the combine go to the wall.

THE LACK OF LOVE.

Why is a dear sweet face we know always sad and white?
A beautiful face, so sweet, and yet the lips are closed tight.
No need to ask our elders, or even the God above;
'Tis plainly written there—"It is the lack of love."

Why has that girl just cast aside her garments by the river?
Just on the point of jumping in—it makes a strong heart quiver.
Her face is white with anguish, as she prays to God above
To forgive her awful deed—thou dies for the lack of love.

Every heart must have its mate, another heart—just two—
In perfect union to beat, with a love tender and true.
Unless the heart is satisfied, no prayer to heaven above
Will fill the soul's mad longing for just the lack of love.

EBBA DROF.

A Cheap Suit...

Looks well the first four weeks you wear it. How about the end of the season? A really good suit should be presentable and satisfactory for steady wear the second year. Not so with the showy, cheaply made garment. The "good looks" are gone; so is the cloth and lining. Easy to see that the carefully made suit is the cheapest. Even if it did cost a few dollars more at the start you are ahead at the finish.

Cold Facts

ABOUT ICE BOXES.

The economical use of ice in a refrigerator depends entirely upon the principle involved, the construction of the Refrigerator, and in utilizing all the cold air.

The principal causes of decay in meats and fruits are dampness and varying temperature, causing the expansion and contraction of tissues, which hasten decay; hence a dry atmosphere and uniform temperature conduce to their preservation.

These results can only be obtained by a perfect circulation of the air in the Refrigerator, and its condensation in the ice chamber.

The ALASKA is constructed upon strictly scientific principles, by which low temperature and dryness of air are naturally and inevitably obtained.

The ALASKA possesses a provision chamber free from odor.

The ALASKA has preserved fresh meats perfectly for three weeks in the hottest weather.

The ALASKA produces better results with less ice than any other Refrigerator.

The ALASKA is a dry-air Refrigerator, and the best one ever patented.

HOW WEARY IS OUR HEART!

Of kings and courts, of kingly, courtly ways
In which the life of man is bought and sold,
How weary is our heart these many days!

Of ceremonious embassies that hold,
Parley with hell in fine and silken phrase,
How weary is our heart these many days!

Of wavering counselors neither hot nor cold,
Whom from his mouth God speweth be, it told
How weary is our heart these many days!

Yes, for the raveled night is round the lands,
And sick are we of all the imperial story,
The tramp of power and its long trail of pain;
The mighty brows in meanest arts grown hoary;
The mighty hands
That in the dark, affronted name of peace
Bind down a people to be racked and slain;
The emulous armies, waxing without cease,
All puissant, all in vain;
The pacts and leagues to murder by delays,
And the dumb throngs that on the deaf thrones
Gaze;
The common, loveless lust of territory,
The lips that only babble of their mart;
While to the night the shrieking helmets blaze;
The bought allegiance and the purchased praise,
False honor and shameful glory—
Of all the evil whereof this is part
How weary is our heart!
How weary is our heart these many days!

LEADING HEARTS.

"A disappointment connected with something near your heart, and—let me see!"

She turned the cards up meditatively on the shining oak table and put her hands to her head in a pretty affectation of wisdom.

"That means love," laying her finger on the five of hearts, "eternal love—the love of some woman. It looks like an old friend, and she runs in hearts, I think. Yes, she is quite light. Can you place her?"

"As far as the coloring goes," he laughed. "I know any number of light women—yourself, for instance."

"Oh, I'm not in it! My hair is too yellow. This one is more of the demiblonde; something like Miss Maitland—bronze hair and blue eyes."

"My dear girl, Miss Maitland isn't a blond at all. If you can't do better than that for me, I'll throw up the whole concern."

She smiled and ran off a few more cards, counting every third one in quite a professional manner.

"Well, if it's not Miss Maitland," shaking her head, "you will have to fill in the name yourself. There is the ace of spades. That's bad luck and a death—Oh, there's your wish! Have you made a wish?"

He shook his head. "You didn't tell me."

"Well, I tell you now. Make it right away, and a good one, too, for I believe it's going to come true."

"But," he protested, leaning forward and resting his arms on the table, "if I make such an important one I want a guarantee. Are you prepared to give it to me?"

"Don't be absurd, Jack; this is serious. Now, wish something good."

"Must I tell you what it is?"

"No," doubtfully. "You don't have to, but you can if you want to."

"Well—I will tell you if I get it. Now, mind, this is very important."

"Select three cards then. Does it concern a woman?"

"Yes."

"I might have known it. Is she light or dark?"

"That would be telling."

"Oh, you are too provoking!" petulantly picking up the cards. "It would serve you right if I said you didn't get your old wish at all."

"But you won't do that?"

"Be still. I will if you don't let go of my hands. See! You are making me drop all the cards."

"Nonsense! I'll help you pick them up. Just tell me if I get my wish."

"Well, I'll see. There's that ten of diamonds, and the deuce, and—ah, the ace of hearts! You will have it, sure, but there is a little disappointment just at first. I see—dear me, Jack! What are you doing? Let go my hands."

"Not until you have given me a guarantee for my wish."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean—oh, well, you have known it all along. You are my wish. No, no, don't move. Come, dear, be serious with me for once."

"But I don't want to be serious," she cried, trying to draw away from him.

"You have spoiled all my fortune. Look! Here I see a gift coming."

"What do I care for the cards or anything else in the world but you? Come, Nell! Give me an answer. You must have some feeling of kindness in your heart for me, your old friend."

"That's it," she whispered falteringly, for the first time letting her eyes meet his. "We are such old friends. I have known you all my life—I—" rubbing her hand on the table nervously.

"I am fonder of you than almost any one, but how can I tell if that is love? Jack, dear, can't we go on in the old way? I don't want to marry." Her fingers closed pleadingly. "Why should we spoil it all by getting married?"

He made a quick, impatient gesture.

"Oh, yes! I know it is different with men, but I would be contented to live on just as we are for years. Why, see! We would never know what it was to tire of each other. We would not have all the romance brushed off our love by the monotonous intimacy of married life. We would have all of the delight with none of the despair. I don't know why marriage should be regarded as the height and pinnacle of earthly bliss. It seems to me it is the one great institution that destroys love."

She gave a restless sigh and let her chin sink into the soft palms of her hands. The pink light from the lamp fell upon her yellow hair, where it lay in babyish rings on her forehead.

He stood looking at her a moment, his heart smothered with pain and longing and love. Then he leaned slowly forward and took both her hands from her face and held them in the firm clasp of his.

"Nell, dear," he said softly, "you talk this way because you don't know what love is. Why, do you suppose for a moment that a mere pleasant companionship would satisfy a man who loved you? He would be only half a man to accept what you suggested. As for me, I cannot go on with our friendship. I will not take a crust when I have asked for bread. You cannot help it, dear, and I must drop out of your life and live my own as best I may."

He dropped her hands, and, turning away, began to finger mechanically the little string that regulated the lamp until the flame began to flicker and finally went out.

"I beg your pardon. I have a match. I can light it again," he muttered hastily.

She watched him in silence as he struck a light and with a steady hand once more sent a soft glow over the room.

Her eyes traveled to his face, with the light shining full upon it. It was strangely still. She felt a peculiar little fluttering sensation in her throat.

"Jack," she whispered falteringly.

He turned in a sudden passion, and catching both her hands drew her near to him—so near that his white face was almost touching hers.

She did not move, but a deep flush crept over his tanned cheeks, and his arms tightened convulsively. The force of his clasp crushed and hurt her. His face came nearer, nearer. Their breaths mingled. Then, with a sharp exclamation, he loosened his hold—so quickly, so suddenly, that she almost fell backward.

"Forgive me," he muttered hoarsely. "Don't speak to me. Good night. Say good night to your mother too."

He pulled aside the curtain with a rough hand and stepped into the hall. She could hear him getting into his coat. Her hands were still fingering the cards. From the force of habit she turned three up. Her eyes fell upon them as they lay under the lamplight.

A mistake—he was getting his cane now. A—the door was opening—a heartache. She felt the cool night wind on her neck and turned slightly. Then there was the sound of the closing door echoing through the silent house—a mistake.

Her eyes clung to the cards. They seemed to mock her. She stretched her arms out blindly toward the door and tried to call his name, but her lips did not move.

Then in a frenzy of pain she scattered the cards on the table. Her eyes fell suddenly upon one. She snatched it recklessly from the pack, and rushing into the hall flung the door wide open.

"Jack! Jack!" she panted.

He was half way down the steps, and as he paused and turned toward her, she impulsively threw the card at his feet. He stooped wonderingly, and raising it held it up to the light.

It was the five of hearts.

"Nell!" he cried, springing up the steps. His voice was hardly to be recognized.

A sudden flutter of nervousness swept over her, and with a throb of fear she slammed the door tight, but he knocked heavily against the panels.

"Nell, Nell, open! What do you mean?"

The door did not move.

"Sweetheart!"

Then there was a little uncertain turning of the knob and a crack of light appeared. Crashing through it, he caught the slight, trembling form in his quivering arms.

"Nell, Nell, what do you mean?"

"I mean," her words falling spasmodically from her lips, "I mean that I want to give you my—guarantee."

Leigh Ford in Truth.

The Windsor Castle Ghost.

Lieutenant Glyn, the young guardsman who recently encountered a "ghost" in Windsor castle, continues to insist that his eyes did not deceive him, and, judging from the details of his experience which he gravely gives to all inquirers, it is more than probable that he is quite right, at least so far as regards his assertion that he "saw something." It is easy to see something almost anywhere, and in Windsor castle there is a large number of people who may well have little affairs of their own which their duty as royal servants prevents them from attending to except in ways as mysterious as possible. Be that as it may, Lieutenant Glyn courageously, perhaps indiscreetly, declares: First, that he was sitting quietly in the castle library, improving his mind by a perusal of "The History of Dorsetshire;" second, that, glancing up from this far from exciting volume, he saw a woman in black, with black lace on her head and falling to her shoulders, who passed noiselessly across the room and disappeared in a corner that was out of his range of view.

This is all there was to the apparition, and the lieutenant—wisely enough—would have thought nothing more of the episode had not an attendant come in soon after to close the library. Lieutenant Glyn told the man that there was a lady in the inner room. The servant investigated. There was no lady. And the chief librarian, who was then summoned, immediately declared that the young man had seen the specter of Queen Elizabeth. Lieutenant Glyn was willing to let it go at that, and the story has deeply impressed everybody in England except a few cynics. The dean of Windsor took pains to get all the details, "several members of the royal family" have interviewed the guardsman, and the papers have given much space to the occurrence. Meanwhile, doubtless, some young woman is blessing the superstitious tendency of her fellow countrymen, and it's not impossible that some young man is equally pleased at it.—New York Times.

The fond mother was instantly on the defensive.

Ambiguity.

"Did you take my message to the Gildingby?" asked the young man with the obtrusive voice.

"Yes, I told them that you have a cold and can't sing, but that you were coming anyway."

"How did they take the news?"

"I don't know. Nobody made any reply except Miss Gildingby. She said she was ever so glad."—Washington Star.

A SIMPLE TIRE REPAIR.

Punctures in the well known Morgan & Wright tire are mended about as easily as a man would close a hole in his finger with a bit of court plaster. Inside of the inner tube of the tire lies a long strip of patching rubber, like this:

By injecting M. & W. quick-repair cement through the puncture into this inner tube, and then pressing down on the tire with the thumb, like this,

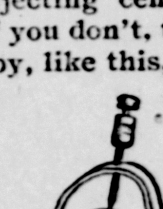

the repair strip inside is picked up by the cement, thus closing the puncture, like this:

Very simple, but—now every rider should remember these two "buts," or he will fail:

Before injecting cement, pump up the tire. If you don't, the inner tube will be flabby, like this, and the cement will not get inside of it, where the repair strip lies.

When you have a puncture, get right off. Riding a tire flat, when it has a tack or nail in it, may damage it considerably.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

BEAUTIFUL EMBROIDERY THAT WILL ALWAYS BE POPULAR.

Suffrage Women as Mothers—Women Farmers—Dress For Growing Girls—The Fashionable Cashmere—Dressing the Hair—Items of Interest.

The recent popularity of embroidery has given many a woman a distaste for the shaded trifles one finds scattered on all sides. The fad, like all others, threatened at one time to become a craze, and, breaking through the bounds which mark the legitimate domains of needlework, embroidery came to be used for all sorts of decorative purposes. From hall to bedroom, dining room to attic, one found oneself everywhere surrounded with a confusion of flowers, birds, scrolls and figures of every conceivable design, often so wonderfully and fearfully made that it is no wonder the fashion was soon on the wane, and that many now feel that they never want to see embroidery again.

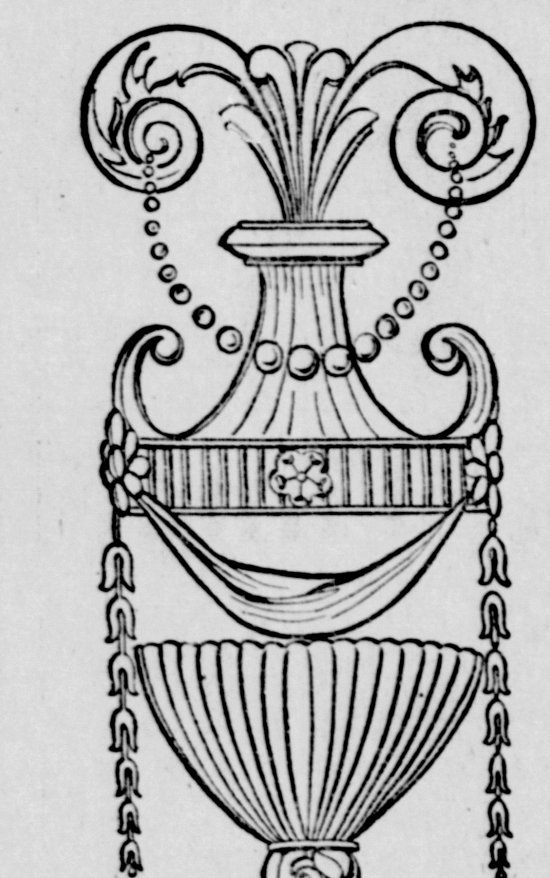

Yet real embroidery is still in demand. There is a difference between the mass of imitations and the needlework that is an art, for embroidery in its perfection is an art. To be such it must not only be faultless, but each piece must be specially designed for the purpose for which it is used. The design, in fact, is the most important part of the work, as shown by the success of Mrs. Clara Kellogg of Westfield, Mass. Her work has taken medals at the Paris exposition, the World's fair and at many other exhibits, yet much of the actual embroidery is done by employees who work from her designs. She plans each piece of every order received, and no two are ever alike.

Some of the designs represent a particular age or country, or are made to correspond with the tone of the room in which they are to be used. For instance, in a Turkish room the portieres, table cover and pillows must, of course, be distinctly oriental, while in another, modeled after the renaissance, they would follow the idea or the decorations peculiar to that period.

In the selection of materials and their arrangement there is a considerable field for the display of taste and originality, and in this is the severest test, that of being able to follow out the idea of the architect and decorator so that the embroidered hangings and covers will fit in with the furnishings and decorations, making a harmonious whole.

Most of the portieres and covers for the drawing room or library were done on satin sheeting. This material is particularly well suited for rich renaissance effects. One of the prettiest portieres was in light blue gray.

For the bedroom there were the daintiest of bureau scarfs and table covers on the sheerest linen and finished generally with an openwork border or insertion of honiton braid. One of these was a scarf with a border of roses worked ed in old blues. A table cover was in the Russian style, worked in delicate pinks and creams, in the peculiar cross stitch used in such designs.

The colonial designs are used for everything, and of these, or, rather, of their application to this kind of embroidery, Mrs. Kellogg is the originator. She was the first to use in this work the old devices peculiar to the architecture of colonial days. This work appears to the best advantage, perhaps, on portieres and tapestries of heavy cream satin sheeting, but is used just as frequently to ornament any and all of the dainty trifles made of linen or silk.—New York Tribune.

Suffrage Women as Mothers. I regret to differ with my valued kinsman, Dr. Walter Channing, in his argument against woman suffrage. It seems to me that the logical foundation for his plea is wanting, and for this reason, that, while he complains that women do not sufficiently do their duty as mothers, he does not adduce one fact to show that women who perform public functions or advocate woman suffrage are liable in any special manner to this charge. From experience much longer than his I should judge the contrary.

My old friend, John G. Whittier, used to give as one reason for the support of woman suffrage his lifelong observation of Quaker women. Among them, he said, those who were most eminent in public service were also uniformly estimable as wives and mothers. His solution was that the same conscientiousness and mental capacity which fitted them for the one sphere fitted them for the other also. This has, at any rate, been my own observation as to the woman suffrage women of the country.

Not only have many of the best suggestions as to education, hygiene and home sanitation been due to them, but in their actual service and success as wives and mothers they have almost always been worthy of admiration. In the long line of leaders, beginning with Lucretia Mott and continuing through Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Lucy Stone, Antoinette Brown Blackwell, Julia Ward Howe, Mary Livermore and many others, their households and their children have been their sufficient testimony. Had there been any very marked exceptions we may be very sure that it would have been proclaimed in a thousand newspapers.

There is, no doubt, a general tendency in New England, under the pressure of that atmospheric influence which the late Tom Appleton called "the whip of the sky," to overwork and attempt too much, but I do not see the smallest evidence that this has any particular bearing on the parental relation or on the function of suffrage. Under the present improved methods of voting—an improvement which practically dates from the admission of women to school suffrage—a mother needs to leave her baby for no longer time in order to drop her ballot into the box than to post a letter at the street corner. As for the aim in voting, it is primarily for her baby that she votes.—T. W. Higginson in Boston Herald.

Women as Farmers.

Farming as an occupation for women may not sound attractive to ladies of culture and refinement, but it has been demonstrated by three young women in Illinois that it is both a lucrative and enjoyable business for the gentler sex, and also that they need not lose their taste for the finer things of life in this humble employment. They believe that woman can properly manage any business if she is trained for it and will closely observe all the details and attend to it herself. Experience has taught them that agents were not a success, as they very soon began to trade on the supposed incapability of women as business managers and tried to deceive them by charging for work which was never done. Their farms, which aggregate 4,200 acres, were inherited from their father, John D. Gillett, a well known man in Illinois, who owned 11,000 acres in Logan county at the time of his death, nine years ago. The young women are practical agriculturists, having picked up much of their knowledge going over the farms with their father, and yet they are finely educated, speak French, and have a taste for art, literature and music.

They devoted their entire time to the farms for the first few years after they assumed the management, and now the land yields twice as much as it did at the time of their father's death. Corn is their principal product, and the average yield is 60 bushels an acre. They have drained a lake of 400 acres by digging a ditch a mile and a half long. The farms are divided into small sections, which are tilled by tenants with whom they divide the crops. These women ride 30 and 40 miles a day on their tours of inspection, which are not at stated times, so the tenants have no way of knowing when they are coming. Miss Nina Gillett says there is no work she would prefer to farming and thinks a woman who has a knowledge of the subject and some experience is just as good a farmer as a man. Miss Amy is quite as much in love with the business, and while they believe in all the science which can be applied to agriculture, they rarely indulge in experiments, but trust to the agricultural experiment stations to enlighten them as to what may or may not be done with land.—Chicago Times-Herald.

It Was True Blue. "Guess it's going to rain," chirped the milkman, as he emptied his measure. The woman of the house threw a glance into the pan. "It looks like it," she said, sternly.—N. Y. World.

The Westfield (Ind.) News prints the following in regard to an old resident of that place: "Frank McAvoy, for many in the employ of the L. N. A. & C. Ry. here, says: 'I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for ten years or longer—am never without it in my family. I consider it the best remedy of the kind manufactured. I take pleasure in recommending it.' It is a specific for all bowel disorders. For sale at C. D. Stevens' pharmacy, corner Main and Milwaukee.

The Best Remedy for Rheumatism. From the Fairhaven (N. Y.) Register. Mr. James Rowland of this village, states that for twenty-five years his wife has been a sufferer from rheumatism. A few nights ago she was in such pain that she was nearly crazy. She sent Mr. Rowland for the doctor, but he had read of Chamberlain's Balm and instead of going for the physician he went to the store and secured a bottle of it. His wife did not approve of Mr. Rowland's purchase at first, but nevertheless applied the Balm thoroughly and in an hour's time was able to go to sleep. She now applies it whenever she feels an ache or a pain and finds that it always gives relief. He says that no medicine which she had used ever did her as much good. The 25 and 50 cent for sale at C. D. Stevens' pharmacy, Cor. Main and Milwaukee.

"It is the Best on Earth." That is what Edwards & Parker, merchants of Plains, Ga., say of Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, deep seated and muscular pains, sold at C. D. Stevens' pharmacy, corner Main and Milwaukee.
